Forecast for Sunday 26 Dec 2021

Weather: Most of the day will be dry, some patchy light snow developing across southwest of the area during this afternoon. Elsewhere it will remain mostly dry. Some winter sunshine expected in most areas, but low cloud developing across Rannoch Moor by early afternoon, this extending northwards during the afternoon and evening.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 80% across the north of the region, 50% in the south

Visibility: Areas of cloud down to 700 to 900 metres developing through the afternoon in the southwest of the area, but summits here should see some clearer conditions in the morning. Ranges across the north including Cairngorm likely to be clear until mid-afternoon before cloud increases
